Helping hand for nursing home

Seven-hour wait at A&E!

PATIENTS and paramedics were left waiting an astonishing seven hours outside Southport Hospital's Accident and Emergency Unit yesterday (Tuesday, April 12) as nurses and doctors battled with a major demand for beds.

Now Southport & Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust bosses have warned people to only use the emergency service if they are in a serious or life threatening condition, in an effort to ease the demand on the service, which at the time of going to press showed no signs of abating.

The Champion reported last week how the NHS service was being put under increased pressure, with ambulances during the Easter period finding themselves waiting outside the hospital's accident and emergency entrance for hours at a time.

However, the issue reached a head yesterday with even rapid response vehicles and police cars waiting alongside ambulances to admit patients.

It is believed that at least one ambulance was waiting for seven hours to drop off a patient. At 4pm our reporter observed nine ambulances, two emergency response vehicles and a police car waiting to deliver patients to the hospital.

The Champion also understands that due to the huge influx of cases, some patients had to wait on beds in corridors to eventually be seen by a doctor.

Rob Gillies, executive medical director, said: "We are asking people to use A&E wisely and think carefully before calling an ambulance.

"A&E is for people facing life-threatening and serious emergencies such as serious accidents, serious burns, breathing problems, heart attacks and strokes.

"Alternatively, West Lancashire Health Centre at Ormskirk Hospital is open from 8am to 10pm all year round. Skelmersdale NHS Walk-in Centre at The Concourse is open from 7am to 10pm weekdays and from 9am to 5pm on weekends."

QUAKE SURVIVOR'S ANNIVERSARY FUNDRAISER

A MAN from Lathom who was almost killed in the 7.8 magnitude earthquake in Nepal last April is holding a concert with his choir on Monday, April 25 - the first anniversary of the disaster - to raise funds for ongoing community projects in Kathmandu.

by Danielle Thompson

Paul Dickie, 64, from Firswood Lane, was fulfilling a lifetime's ambition of visiting Kathmandu with his friend Tony Fairbrother, 58, from Aughton when they were caught in the chaos following the violent quake, which killed more than 8,000 people and left more than 21,000 people injured, reducing historic landmarks to rubble.

The retired civil servants were on the veranda of the Audience Chamber looking across Nasal Chowk to the Basantapur Tower, the highest temple tower in Durbar Square, when the quake hit, causing the tower to crumble right onto where they had been stood just seconds earlier.

Paul told the Champion: "I have never been so frightened when the Nepal earthquake struck. I got out of the temple just moments before it struck and looked back to see the highest temple tower in Kathmandu collapsing towards me. I had to run for my life to avoid the falling masonry.

"No-one tells you this but the noise of an earthquake is absolutely terrifying and you feel powerless as it goes on and on.

"We intended to stay for three weeks but had only been in the country one night when the earthquake struck. You feel helpless afterwards and don't know how to help so we went to the British Embassy and as former civil servants we helped with the repatriation of British nationals and the early aid effort for the Nepalese people for almost a week before flying home.

"Experiences like this leave their mark on you and I resolved to do something when I got back to try to help the people who had been so welcoming and had looked after us so well."

Paul Dickie sightseeing in Durbar Square in Kathmandu minutes before the earthquake struck

Aughton Male Voice Choir, of which Paul is a member, are holding a concert at Ormskirk Parish Church at 7.30pm on Monday, April 25 to coincide with the first anniversary of the earthquake.

Paul added: "Our concerts have raised thousands of pounds for local charities and the choir unanimously supported my request to hold a concert to raise funds for Nepal.

"We have worked with two well-established charities working locally in Nepal, Transformation Nepal and Resolve International, who will use any funds raised to continue their work there."

Tickets will be available on the door.

New members welcome at OAPs exercise class

IF you're an older person who wants to keep fit but pounding the pavements is definitely not for you, then why not join an exercise class with a difference?

The Seated Exercise Class is a pensioners' group which meets at Parbold Women's Institute Hall from 9.40am every Thursday.

The aim of the group is to encourage sensible exercise for older people and it has many members in their 70s and 80s.

Group organiser, Chris Burrows, said: "Our trained and experienced fitness instructor makes the sessions fun and everyone is welcome.

"We usually follow sessions by getting together for a coffee to encourage those who are socially isolated.

"People hear seated exercise and jump to the conclusion that the classes will be an easy option – but that's not the case.

"The strengthening exercises are really good.

"It's also a chance to make some lovely new friends."

The non-profit sessions cost £4, which covers the cost of the tutor and the hall, and there's no need to book, just turn up.

Bumper response to charity's 'find a home for sisters' appeal

by Danielle Thompson

THREE young siblings could be set to secure a loving home together after an appeal by charity, Adoption Matters, sparked a massive response from the public.

The charity had called on West Lancs resdients to consider providing a home for sisters Lilly, five, Brodie, three and two-year-old Evie (pictured).

Officials were keen to help the girls to stay together as they have a strong, close bond with each other..

Now a spokesperson for Adoption Matters has revealed that they received a huge response after the appeal was featured in the Champion last month.

A statement issued by the charity stated: "Thank-you to the many people who enquired about the sibling group of three little girls who were featured recently. We have been overwhelmed with the public's response to our plea for a family. It is truly heartwarming to have received such a high level of response and the strong desire to keep the children together.

"Our bespoke family-finding service is now dealing with all enquiries to ensure that we find a family who can best meet the girls' needs. We have now removed their profiles to focus on the enquiries received.

"However, if you could offer a sibling group or a child with additional needs a permanent home, please contact us for more information.

"All families recruited for these children will be offered full training and a package of support."

77 weapons handed in during first week of gun amnesty

Report by Danielle Thompson

A TOTAL of 77 weapons have been handed in to police stations across the county as part of a two-week gun amnesty being run by Lancashire Constabulary.

The force, along with five others from across the North West, is appealing for people to 'Give up the Gun' in a two week surrender of firearms and ammunition, which started on April 4 and runs until next Monday, April 18.

Up to yesterday (Tuesday, April 12) 20 rifles, 15 shotguns; eight revolvers, seven air pistols, seven GAT guns, six BB/imitation guns, five antique weapons, four starting pistols, three knives/miscellaneous weapons, a stun gun and a crossbow had been handed in.

In addition 323 rounds of ammunition had been surrendered handed. This included 150 rounds of shotgun 12-gauge ammunition; 53 rounds of undefined live ammunition; 46 rounds of .202 ammunition; 32 rounds of 7.65mm ammunition; 22 rounds of .38 ammunition; 16 rounds of 22" mark-1 cartridges and four rounds of World War Two ammunition.

The force plan to reveal the amount of guns and ammunition handed in to each area, including West Lancashire, once the amnesty has finished this weekend.

It's been around 18 months since the force last asked members of the public to surrender unlawfully held or unwanted guns and ammunition to prevent them from getting into the wrong hands.

A total of 103 guns including shotguns, air guns, pistols, rifles and revolvers were handed in along with 3,419 rounds of ammunition during the 2014 surrender, codenamed Operation Holster, and it is hoped that this year even more items will be given to police.

Many firearms are held in innocence and ignorance of their illegality or are overlooked and forgotten in people's homes. Others are acquired and distributed by criminal networks to harm, threaten and intimidate their local communities. The surrender gives the chance to dispose of the firearm or ammunition by simply taking it to a local police station and handing it in.

Surrendering unwanted, unlicensed weapons avoids the risk of them becoming involved in criminality and means that members of the community can dispose of firearms in a safe place.

During this period, those surrendering firearms may not face prosecution for the illegal possession and can remain anonymous. However, each firearm handed in will be assessed by firearms officers, with some weapons being forensically checked for evidence.

More than 100 guns were handed into the force during last year's amnesty

Chief Inspector Mark Baines said: "This is an opportunity for people to do the right thing and get rid of these potentially deadly weapons. The message really is simple – give up the gun, help us save lives and keep our communities gun free.

"We would encourage people to come forward and help us to stop these weapons from falling into the hands of criminals.

Anyone handing in a firearm or ammunition during this opportunity is advised to check the opening times of their nearest station before they set off. Details can be found on the force website www.lancashire.police.uk

Anyone wishing to hand-in firearms should put them in a box or strong bag and put ammunition in a separate box or bag – and they should never attempt to take an uncovered weapon out in public.

More plaudits for teenagers' anti-crime film

Report by Henry James

THE police have praised a new film starring West Lancashire teenagers about the dangers of getting involved in gang culture.

Crossing the Line shows the risks and consequences of joining organised crime gangs, and aims to discourage young people from getting involved in crime and gang culture.

The idea for a film came after a meeting between West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership (WLCSP) and Detective Chief Superintendent Simon Giles, who is head of crime at Lancashire Constabulary, to discuss new and innovative ways of engaging with young people on these themes.

The partnership commissioned the Artz Centre in Birch Green, Skelmersdale to script and produce the film.

Police officers, the Youth Offending Team and Lancashire County Council's Young Peoples Services all had an opportunity to discuss the challenges faced locally by young people and influence the script.

Crossing the Line was officially launched at the Artz Centre, as reported previously in the Champion, where the audience of more than 100 people were very impressed with what they saw.

Those watching included the High Sherriff of Lancashire, Amanda Parker and the Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Nikki Hennessy, who presented members of the cast and production crew with awards for their contribution to the project.

Detective Chief Superintendent Giles said: "It is vitally important that we seek to protect and support young people who are vulnerable to becoming involved with street gangs and organised criminality.

"Our approach to this disruption is for their sake as well as for the benefit of the community. The cast and crew on Crossing the Line can be very proud of what they have produced and the film will be a big help in our work to stop teenagers joining gangs."

Dave Tilleray, chairman of the West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership, said: "Mark Ashton and his talented team at the Artz Centre, which includes a fantastic local cast of young people, have produced an excellent tool for engaging young people on the dangers of organised crime.

"We aim to arrange to have the film shown in all local secondary schools to highlight the consequences of making poor choices. Hopefully this will ensure teenagers and even younger children are more informed on this subject and to deter them away from becoming involved in organised crime."

Priest in court on child sex abuse charges

A ROMAN Catholic priest accused of historical sex abuse at a former West Lancashire seminary has appeared in the dock.

Father Michael Higginbottom pleaded not guilty at Liverpool Crown Court on Tuesday (April 12) to six sex offences allegedly involving two young boys in the late 1970s.

The 73-year-old, who now lives in the North East, is currently suspended from St Augustine's RC Church in Darlington.

The priest, who was wearing a dark suit and blue shirt and tie, pleaded not guilty to two offences of indecently assaulting one boy aged 12/13.

He also denied two offences of indecently assaulting the other boy, also aged 13 and two offences of buggery against him.

The offences allegedly occurred in 1978 and 1979 at St Joseph's College in Up Holland when he taught there. The seminary closed its doors in the 1990s.

Fr. Higginbottom, of West Farm Road, Newcastle, was further remanded on bail to await his trial, expected to last seven days, beginning on Monday, September 19.

Mayor to attend school presentation ceremony

MAYOR of West Lancs, Councillor Nikki Hennsessy and her consort, will attend a presentation ceremony at Woodland Community Primary School in Heathgate, Skelmersdale at 1.20pm on Friday, April 15, for two pupils who won a competition to design the livery for a new vehicle for food waste recycling company, ReFood Widnes.

School PTA to hold fundraising stall at Concourse centre

WEST Lancashire Community High School's Parent Teacher Association will be selling scarves and cards at the Concourse shopping centre , Skelmerdale on Friday, April 15 from 10am to 4pm.

Janet Leigh, PTA member at the specialist secondary school for pupils aged 11 to 19 years with a wide range of learning difficulties, said: "We are holding a stall outside Iceland to raise money for the school, we want to raise funds for sports equipment.

"We decided that it might make a fun change from holding coffee mornings and we are urging the public to please support us in helping to support this wonderful school."

Call for review of healthcare services tendering process

by Danielle Thompson

ROSIE Cooper is calling for the West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group to review its decision to exclude Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust from the tendering process for local healthcare services.

The MP's appeal follows Southport and Formby CCG's decision to allow the hospital trust to continue in the bidding process for their community services.

It was revealed in March that four companies had been invited to continue negotiations to take over community health and urgent care services in West Lancs, despite a proposal by Southport & Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust to continue provision.

Services affected include the GP out-of-hours provision, walk-in centres in Ormskirk and Skelmersdale, and the Acute Visiting Service.

The West Lancs MP described the move as being like "handing out our NHS services like sweeties to the private sector."

After the announcement by Southport and Formby CCG Ms Cooper said that she has asked the West Lancs CCG to clarify how they reached the decision to exclude the trust on the grounds of financial stability.

West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper

She said: "The news of Southport and Formby CCG's decision to allow the hospital to continue in the bidding process for community services in their area raises serious questions about the tendering process undertaken by West Lancashire CCG.

"West Lancashire CCG's claim its exclusion of the hospital trust was on the grounds of financial stability doesn't stand up in the face of Southport and Formby CCG's decision. They accept the hospital trust's financial position is not a barrier to them delivering services.

"As we know, there are financial pressures on all parts of the NHS. Giving services to private companies, as in the case of urgent care services in West Lancashire, is not going to help that situation.

"I still await answers from West Lancashire CCG having asked them to explain their decision to exclude Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust from tendering for two service contracts.

"In light of Southport and Formby CCG's decision I am now calling on West Lancashire CCG to review their tendering process.

"The people of West Lancashire who fund these services deserve to know the truth from local health bosses on why they excluded the hospital trust and on what evidence did they base their decision."

County police among first to adopt graduate recruitment programme

LANCASHIRE Constabulary will welcome a new intake of graduates to the force from September this year, through a groundbreaking new programme called Police Now.

Set up in 2014, Police Now is a two-year training programme designed to attract the best graduates into the police service.

The scheme was inspired by Teach First, the educational initiative that puts top graduates into schools in deprived areas and has been credited with dramatically improving the life chances of some of the most vulnerable children in society.

Similarly, the Police Now programme places top graduates in the most challenging communities across the country where they can have the greatest positive impact.

Each graduate police officer on the scheme is responsible for cutting crime and increasing public confidence in the police in a specific ward or area.

Delighted

The day-to-day work will vary according to the needs of the patch, but it will be on the front line as a community officer in some of the toughest neighbourhoods in Lancashire.

In its first year, Police Now was piloted by the Metropolitan Police in London and the scheme has been extended to seven forces around the country, nearly doubling its graduate intake.

Lancashire Constabulary is one of the first forces nationally to take on graduates from the Police Now Programme.

David Spencer, co-founder of Police Now, said: "We are delighted with the success of Police Now so far.

"In our second year, we have seen an 85% increase in intake, and will have the opportunity to place top graduates in forces around the country, including in Lancashire Constabulary.

"These officers will make a big difference to their local communities."

Raiders target hospice charity shop

STAFF at a hospice charity shop have been left devastated after raiders broke in and stole cash which had been raised to help terminally ill patients, including many from West Lancashire.

The thieves broke in to the Queenscourt Hospice charity shop in Cambridge Road, Southport overnight on Thursday (April 7) seemingly targeting the contents of a safe hidden in a back room.

Despite being heavily bolted to both the wall and floor, the assailants managed to successfully remove the safe and all its contents including an undisclosed amount of cash.

Due to the nature of the raid, it is believed that the suspects had prior knowledge of where the safe was and what equipment to use in order to remove it.

Merseyside Police are now analysing CCTV footage from a nearby store in the hope that it may have caught one or more of the assailants on film.

A spokesperson for Queenscourt hospice says staff were left angry and upset by the incident.

They told the Champion: "Staff at the store locked up at around 5pm and didn't arrive back until the next morning when they found the front door broken.

"Whoever did this had managed to force the lock out of the door before gaining entry. There is extensive damage to the doors now which we will have to find costs to cover. Staff found that the safe, which had been heavily bolted to both the floor and the wall, had disappeared. It feels like a premeditated attack."

Anyone with information can ring 101 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Asda Skelmersdale Community Life Champion, Sharon Roberts presents the cheque for £200 to Bobby Givnan from Birch Green Amateur Boxing Club, watched by representatives of the runners-up.

Supermarket's boost for boxing club's revamp fund

OFFICIALS and members of a local sporting club are celebrating a knockout success after becoming the latest winner of a monthly community campaign run by a Skelmersdale supermarket.

Representatives from the Birch Green Amateur Boxing Club were presented with a cheque for £200 as part of Asda's 'Chosen By You, Given by Us' initiative.

The scheme offers local charities and organisations the opportunity to be nominated by the public to receive a donation from their local store.

Runners-up in the latest round of nominations were The Quarry Bank Community Association in Ormskirk Road and the Skelmersdale Ecumenical Centre, Northway, which each received £50 from Asda.

Birch Green Boxing Club are currently seeking to raise £10,000 for vital repairs. The club has been established for more than 20 years but its base in Heversham is badly in need of refurbishment, including to a leaking roof.

Club officials say the base also needs redecorating, while much of the equipment they currently use is in need of updating.

Eyes down in aid of mayor's charities...

A PRIZE bingo is being held at the Evermoor Hub in Birleywood, Skelmersdale on Sunday, April 17 starting at 1pm in aid of the Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Nikki Hennessy's charities, Barnado's Lancashire Young Carers in West Lancashire and the West Lancs Alzheimer's Society.

Alfie fund homes in on world record bid

Report by Henry James

A FOOTBALL 'chain of memorabilia' started to raise awareness of a fund supporting a West Lancashire youngster who suffers from a rare chromosome disorder is coming to Skelmersdale United's Stormy Corner ground on Saturday, April 16.

Eight-year-old Alfie Lund, from Burscough, suffers from MECP2 Duplication syndrome. Although there are a couple of reported cases in girls it occurs almost exclusively in boys.

Alfie can't walk or talk, has profound and multiple learning difficulties, suffers from recurrent chest infections and has had two bouts of serious pneumonia due to a weakened immune system.

In August 2012 his family set up The Alfie Lund Fund with the aim of raising money to buy him a specially-adapted bed.

And in 2014, his parents, Mark and Rachel Lund, set out to create the longest chain of football-related memorabilia to raise awareness of Alfie's condition.

To date they have collected more than two miles of shirts, scarves and flags, include a signed shirt from former Liverpool and England captain, Steven Gerrard

The aim is to break the world records for the longest football memorabilia chain after which the items will be auctioned off.

Skelmersdale United's Rob McIntosh with Alfie and his brother

Mark said: "After 64 games, the Alfie Lund Football Chain is coming to Stormy Corner on Saturday for the Skelmersdale United versus Mickleover Sports match.

"The journey started on our local park and has taken in all leagues north and south. Originally we only planned on doing eight games to raise awareness for Alfie and MECP2 UK, but the support grew and we have had to battle Alfie developing seizures and bouts of pneumonia along the way.

"We have submitted a bid to the Guinness World Records for the longest football chain record and when we get the go-ahead it will be measured on Skem's pitch for all to see with donations of scarves, shirts and flags from all over the world.

"All the clubs we have been to have been superb with their support but to bring the football chain home to West Lancashire and surround the pitch at Skem and thank them for their support will be the icing on the cake.

"It will be something never seen before in non-league so come down, bring a shirt scarf or flag and be part of history."

Businessman hit with £2,000 fine for fly-tipping

A BUSINESSMAN has been handed a bill of more than £2,000 after being prosecuted for fly-tipping in West Lancashire.

John Whitmore, of Cooper Avenue, Warrington pleaded guilty at Ormskirk Magistrates Court to three offences relating to a large amount of waste illegally dumped on a track off College Road, Up Holland.

The waste, from a household clearance, was discovered on August 3 last year by West Lancashire Borough Council officers and was traced back to a property in Warrington.

It was discovered that the occupier of this property had paid Mr Whitmore, who was operating a company, JW Removals, to remove this waste.

In court on April 4 Mr Whitmore pleaded guilty to fly-tipping. He also pleaded guilty to failing to provide waste transfer notes for the removal of this waste and failing to provide information to the council.

He was ordered to pay a fine of £1,384, costs of £651.92 and a victim surcharge of £105 totalling £2,140.92.

Meanwhile, West Lancs Council is reminding all householders that they need to make sure any waste that they have removed is disposed of legally.

Anyone removing waste as part of a business must have a waste carriers' licence and give waste transfer notes to whomever they take waste from. Householders can check if anyone who removes waste from them has a waste carriers' licence by contacting the Environment Agency on 03708 506506 or online at www.gov.uk/environment-agency.

Dave Tilleray, who heads up the council's environmental enforcement team, said: "The council takes a hard line approach on these matters and demonstrates the commitment of the environmental enforcement team to take action against offenders wherever possible."

If you think waste has been disposed of illegally you can report this to the council 24 hours a day on the council's website at www.westlancs.gov.uk; or you can call 01695 577177 between 8.30am and 5.30pm Monday to Friday.

Residents urged to have their say on Whitemoss

Public consultation to run until April 27

SKELMERSDALE residents are being urged to have their say on the draft decision to vary the permit for Whitemoss landfill site issued by the Environment Agency.

Report by Henry James

A public consultation period on the decision is being held until Wednesday April 27 and West Lancs MP, Rosie Cooper has called on the people of the town and surrounding areas to make their views known.

At present the permit covers six hectares of the site. The new permit would allow for extending operations to the Western landfill area recently given planning permission. This extension is 12.7 hectares.

Speaking following the launch of the consultation, Ms Cooper, who has campaigned to close Whitemoss landfill site, said: "I would strongly urge local residents to have their say on the draft decision to vary the permit for Whitemoss landfill site.

"The change will allow the company permission to use an area that is twice the size of their existing landfill site for more waste dumping.

"While the Environment Agency are minded to allow the permit variation, which is disappointing for residents neighbouring the site and Skelmersdale as a whole, this is not their final decision. Therefore, it is important to make a submission to the consultation.

"Residents have until April 27 to submit their responses either online or in writing to the Environment Agency.

"While the fight to stop any more waste dumping goes on in the High Court it is essential that residents voices are heard on all matters concerning the future of Whitemoss landfill site until all avenues have been exhausted."

Rob Routledge, managing director of Whitemoss Landfill Ltd, said: "This application would allow us to continue our important work in ensuring that brownfield sites can be brought back into use for much-needed homes and that byproducts from recycling processes can be stored safely and securely.

"As a family-run company which provides local jobs, we work to the highest standards and hope that the variation will be approved soon."

New pub/restaurant to be called Miner's Peg

BREWERS Marston's have named the pub/restaurant they plan to build on the existing Asda overflow car park at Ingram, Birch Green.

The application was discussed at a meeting of the borough's planning committee in January and approved.

The pub/restaurant, which will be called the Miner's Peg, will cater for up to 180 diners and be of "traditional design."

It is hoped it will secure inward investment of more than £2m and create between 40 to 50 full-time permanent jobs for local residents.

Marston's say the facility will be targeted at families and those wanting to dine.

The main entrance of the pub/restaurant would face south and front the car park and include a covered terraced area and garden with a small children's play area. Customers would be able to access the venue by turning off the roundabout leading to the Asda delivery area. It would also have parking spaces for 55 cars.

In his report on the proposal, the council's assistant director of planning, John Harrison, wrote that it would "help create an evening economy with a recognised family pub/restaurant chain" and "improve the viability and vitality of the town centre and complement the existing and proposed uses in the area."

Chance to get creative to help brighten up shopping centre

Sandy Lane Centre

WEST Lancs Council are inviting local people of all ages to 'get creative' and help create artwork to brighten up Skelmersdale's Sandy Lane Shopping Centre.

The council's Arts Services and The Friends of Sandy Lane have been successful with an Arts Council England (ACE) funding bid of £15,000.

And they will be using some of this money to create artwork to make the shopping centre more colourful.

The Park Children's Centre, Beacon View Residential home, St Richard's Primary School, West Lancashire Community High School, Divine Days and Age UK are all involved with the project. Artists One Red Shoe and creative writer Sarah Schofield will be working with them and providing opportunities for the general public to get involved.

INSPIRED

A free family fun day has been planned for Saturday, April 30 from 10.30am to 4.30pm when there will be vintage and hand-made stalls including live entertainment. Free creative sessions will also take place at Unit 63 Sandy Lane Centre, providing a range of exciting opportunities, for all ages to try out new skills.

One Red Shoe, inspired by images of old Sandy Lane, will run sessions for people to create 3D models of mini topiary trees and decorate them. And professional writer Sarah Schofield will be encouraging the local community to share stories and hopes for the future about Sandy Lane with writing activities.

Textile artist Emma Blackburn will be showing people how to produce textile plants.

All the work produced will influence the final artwork created by the artists and this will eventually be installed at the shopping centre.

Meanwhile over the coming weeks the following free sessions will be available.

Sarah Schofield is running a five-week short story writing course for writers aged 16 and over, starting on Tuesday, May 3 from 6 to 8pm at Unit 63 Sandy Lane Centre. Sessions will be inspired by the heritage of Sandy Lane. All abilities are welcome.

Emma Blackburn will be facilitating free, fun textile workshops for families. Sessions start on Wednesday, May 4 for five weeks, from 3.30 to 5pm in Unit 63.

And Emma will also be running a Saturday Art Club for eight to 11-year-olds, starting Saturday, April 30, initially for six weeks. Sessions will run alternate Saturday afternoons from 1.30 to 3.30pm, cost is £5 per session to be paid termly.

Booking and consent forms need to be completed by contacting West Lancashire Arts Development Service on 01695 571328 or email chapel.gallery@westlancs.gov.uk.

If you have any questions about any of the above workshops or are interested in booking a free stall for the fun day, or joining the Friends of Sandy Lane Group, contact Jenni Ashcroft via the number above.

The Delete Blood Cancer charity's appeal for stem cell donors

RESIDENTS in West Lancashire are being urged to join the global family of registered donors to help blood cancer patients whose own siblings can't save their life.

Following Siblings Day last Sunday (April 10) the charity Delete Blood Cancer UK is calling for more people in the area to register as potential blood stem cell donors to help those who don't have a sibling that can donate to them.

There are currently 622 registered in West Lancs, but more are needed.

With thousands of people with a blood cancer or blood disorder urgently needing a blood stem cell donation for their survival, the charity is highlighting that only 30 per cent will find a donor within their own family, which is usually their sibling. With the rest relying on the altruism of an unrelated donor, it is crucial that as many people as possible register as potential blood stem cell donors.

For many people with a blood cancer or blood disorder, a donation of blood stem cells from another person that enables their body to develop a healthy immune system is their best chance of staying alive. However, many are still dying as a result of blood cancers and blood disorders because they can't benefit from this procedure as nobody with a compatible tissue type can be found, in their family or among those registered as potential blood stem cell donors.

It doesn't mean that there is nobody with a tissue type that is compatible to the patient. There could be someone with a tissue type that matches the patient's who could save their life, but tragically, they are not registered as a potential blood stem cell donor. Delete Blood Cancer UK works to raise awareness of the importance of registering and recruits potential blood stem cell donors.

Jenny Clegg, head of communications at the charity, said: "While some of those in need of a blood stem cell donation for their survival can find a matching donor within their family, most can't. Instead, their only hope of staying alive is finding a match among those registered as potential blood stem cell donors.

"So, please, take a few minutes to register as a potential blood stem cell donor to help everyone who doesn't have a sibling who can save their life."

Voting to leaving EU is only way to regain control of our industry and our borders

YOUR correspondent Adrian Tayler (Letters, Champion, April 6) seems to believe that it is a good thing to let foreign companies run/own important parts of British industry/infrastructure.

To allow Deutshe Bahn (Arriva's German owner) to run major rail routes is another step down a very slippery slope.

Rolls Royce Motors, Jaguar/Land Rover, Bentley, Mini, British Steel are all in the hands of foreign companies. These companies put the welfare of their shareholders and dividends above any concern for the British employees.

If it adds to their profits they will shut plants or move manufacturing abroad where labour cost are lower. Our steel industry and fishing industry are prime examples of this, encouraged in large part by our membership of the European Union and the strangling red tape it imposes.

The UK is the world's fifth largest economy and the sixth largest in terms of military prowess. We were a dynamic and powerful country long before the EU was invented. We fought two World Wars to maintain our independence only for our political leaders to give it away, bit by bit.

The Prime Minister dashes around Europe seeking to bring back crumbs from the EU table to justify his pro-EU fantasy.

We give the EU £55 million per day as our membership fee.

Every day 1,000 extra people arrive in our country who need health care, schooling for their children and housing.

The 'living wage' will only encourage more to arrive.

The only way we can regain control of our country and its borders and our industry is to vote leave at the referendum on June 23.

Tony Green, Aughton

Poor grounds maintenance is contributing to town's decline

JUST been reading the letters page in the Champion, and after reading the letter from Andrew Gilland with regard to the decline of Skelmersdale, I agree wholeheartedly with what he says.

I have lived on the Tanhouse estate for 28 years and have seen a decline in the conditions of footpaths, grass areas left to grow out of control, and fences rotting away due to not being maintained.

Most of the problems with regard to the footpaths are that trees have been left to grow freely, and as a consequence the root system has been allowed to carry on spreading underground and this is having an impact on the footpaths.

And where the footpaths are laid from flags they are being pushed up by the roots, becoming uneven, and thereby are a hazard to elderly people who use those paths.

I once put this problem to a member of the council's ground maintenance department and he just tut-tuttered it out of hand.

Now, I have had nearly 60 years in horticulture and all aspects of it and this meeting made me realise I was talking to someone who had not got a clue of what I was talking about.

So I thought, I will have a word with one of the lawnmowers, they seem to have a higher IQ!

Chris Grogan, Tanhouse

Readers invited to join our friendship group

WITH birdsong and brighter mornings bringing a certain joie de vivre, we'd like to invite any Champion readers, who may be looking for others to get out and about with, to get in touch.

We have a variety of local events and activities planned for the season, such as chat-filled coffee mornings, local history talks and trips out and about. Many are free or charged to simply cover costs.

As a local friendship group, we've helped many people take the small steps they are looking for to get some spring back into their social life by trying something new in good company.

We know how many events in life can result in us putting our social lives on hold or - even subconsciously - letting it take a back seat, such as having friends or family move away, a divorce or sadly losing someone close.

Our events are perfect for anyone looking to pop some more activities in their diary. If you're coming along on your own, or nervous about meeting new people, you can be sure of a warm welcome.

If you'd like to receive a list of our planned events, just drop us a line on 01704 545279 or email me at judith.catton@oddfellows.co.uk.

Clearing up confusion over bridge weight limit sign

IN respect of the letter headed 'Bridge weight restrictions are pointless if they can't be enforced' (Champion, March 23) it may seem a little late, but it strikes me that people - drivers, council officials or indeed the police - have not actually read the restriction signs.

Whilst some of the peripheral signage might be misleading and suggest a 'load weight' of 18t, the actual restriction is stated as being 18t MGW, that is the Maximum Gross Weight of the vehicle, including the vehicle itself, its passengers, fuel and cargo.

It is, or was, known as the 'plated weight' and can usually be found on a plate - hence the name - in the foot well of the vehicle.

No need for a weighbridge. If the stated MGW of the vehicle exceeds 18t, it is illegal for it to cross the bridge.

It does not matter if the vehicle is carrying a load or is in fact empty, it is the Maximum Gross Weight.

Drivers' double parking spells double trouble - for buses and ambulances

I WAS on our saved local bus route on Tuesday, April 5 when it had to turn round and back out of the estate due to double parking on Molyneux Road.

This is a daily battle as, because there is not enough parking space for Town Green railway station, people take the easy option of parking as near as possible when using the train.

Drivers ignore the fact that this is an older persons residence area and that ambulances, as well as the hourly bus, need to access this road through to Whalley Drive itself.

This is not an easy problem to solve as this is also difficult for residents when parents use the drive whilst dropping off and picking up children from school.

Perhaps, at least, Merseyrail could consider extending their car park and local train users and parents could use an alternative way of accessing school and train by walking.

I don't know the answer but can see that we are in greater danger again of losing our local bus.

Judy Ingman, Whalley Drive, Aughton

Dated public toilets in need of a revamp

WE are calling for improvements to Ormskirk's public toilets.

Council staff work hard maintaining the toilets on Moorgate, day in day out. However, these toilets are looking dated and in need of refurbishment. The metal style of toilets are not very welcoming.

The summer is approaching and that means Ormskirk will be busier, especially with the proposed Gingerbread Festival and August MotorFest event. Ormskirk needs first-class toilets, not only for residents, but for visitors who we want to come back.

It would be great if the toilets on Moorgate and in Coronation Park could be improved.

Edward McCarthy and Thomas Burton, Ormskirk

Martin Mere news

At the start of Spring, a lot of work goes on behind the scenes at WWT Martin Mere Wetland Centre to prepare for the breeding season ahead.

Three different types of nestboxes are put out in the grounds: a ground box for ground nesting birds such as mallard; an L shaped nestbox represents a rabbit hole to encourage shelducks to nest and a tree box which is fastened to a post at a height of about 1m from the ground and the ducks will walk up a ladder leading to the entrance hole. Ducks which usually nest in tree holes will use these boxes such as Mandarins.

One of the biggest jobs for the grounds team to do is to create the Greater flamingo nest site which they did last week in the wind and rain. The first job is to remove the sand from the old nest site and this is used to build up the banks around the flamingo lake. Sand is used for the nest site to protect the feet of the flamingos, but bark chippings are actually used to create the individual nests.
The flamingos, traditionally from the Mediterranean and parts of Africa, would usually make mud nests in the wild, but they have grown to prefer bark chippings after they were placed on their Island to assist the breeding of the eider ducks, who were found nesting on the chippings under the slide in the children's play area.

Grounds Manager, Steve Nasir, said: "As you walk around Martin Mere at this time of year you will start to see a number of subtle changes such as the nest boxes appearing everywhere and nest sites being created. The flamingos have shown a lot of interest in breeding and I would hope to start seeing eggs by late April to ensure we have flamingo chicks for our Downy Duckling Week in May."

As the Easter holidays continue, so does the GIANT duck hunt and all Easter activities including pond dipping and paint a duck crafts. Over 11,500 people have enjoyed the Easter activities since Good Friday and the centre is still expecting thousands more with the activities continuing until Sunday 24 April.

WWT Martin Mere is open every day from 9.30am to 6pm and parking is free of charge. Situated off the A59, it is signposted from the M61, M58 and M6. The centre is also accessible via the Southport to Manchester and the Liverpool to Preston line by train from Burscough Rail Stations. Visit the web site http://www.wwt.org.uk/martinmere/ to find out what's on all year round at Martin Mere and the other eight centres.

Campaign group in call for county council to recognise importance of buses to community

Report by Danielle Thompson

Dawn Badminton-Capps

FOLLOWING the £5m reduction in subsidies for bus services in the county a campaign group is calling on Lancashire County Council to recognise the value of buses as more than just a mode of transport.

A submission to the authority by the group, Bus Users UK, has highlighted the vital contribution that buses make to the economy and to local communities, accounting for nearly two thirds of all public transport journeys yet receiving relatively little public sector investment.

Following a series of consultation events with passengers across the region, Bus Users UK points to the vital role buses play in reducing congestion and ensuring that people have access to education, employment and essential services.

IMPACT

The decision to cut subsidies is likely to affect older people and people with disabilities in particular, with many already experiencing isolation following previous cuts to services.

Dawn Badminton-Capps, Bus Users director for England, said: "Running effective bus services in Lancashire could actually reduce costs in areas such as home-to-school transport, health and social services. While we would be happy to work with Lancashire County Council in order to mitigate the impact of any cuts, we would urge them to find ways to protect these vital lifelines."

The group has submitted its response to Lancashire County Council's consultation on the proposed removal of subsidy for buses in the area.

Bus Users UK is a non-profit organisation that champions the interests of bus and coach passengers. To find out more about the work of Bus Users and to read its submission to Lancashire County Council's consultation visit www.bususers.org/publications.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Which? Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. 'Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Southport, Crosby, Litherland, Aintree, Maghull, Walton, Anfield, Netherton & Bootle areas and manager Louis Richards agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Louis a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Invitation to join walkers group and help hospice

THERE'S a chance to get some healthy exercise and make a donation to a good cause by joining up with a local walking group.

The ACTion Walkers, based at Aughton Village Hall, have organised a series of leisurely five-mile circular weekend walks around West Lancs and the surrounding areas in April, May and June.

Walks start from the hall in Winfred Lane at 2pm before meeting back there for refreshments.

The walks and refreshments are free but a small donation for Queenscourt Hospice is always appreciated - no need to book, just turn up.

First walk on Sunday, April 17 will cover Edge Hill Campus. This will be followed by Lydiate on Saturday, April 23; Three Farms and a Canal (Saturday, May 7); Clieve's Hill (Sunday, May 15); Melling (Sunday, June 5); Mossock Hall Golf Club (Saturday, June 11); and Gerard's Hall Farm (Saturday, June 18).

For more details email group leaders, Mark and Julia at actionwalkers@gmail.com.

Why does it always have to be somebody else's fault?

THERE was a story in my morning newspaper recently about Health and Safety wonks who want to remove an 11,000-year-old rock which has stood the test of time since the last Ice Age – because ONE car has run into it!

Buckinghamshire County Council officers say the three-foot high landmark, which has stood in the middle of a T-junction in the village of Soulbury since the roads were built, has suddenly become an obstruction and must go, much to the dismay and consternation of the villagers.

Apparently it became an obstruction under the Highways Act 1980, but it has taken until Mr Mgoo managed to run into it (and claim £1,800 compensation) for them to realise this. This surprises me not at all. These days any misfortune that befalls us is always somebody's fault. It does strike me though that if this motorist's eyesight is so poor, then surely he shouldn't be driving in the first place? Never mind the damage he (or she) has done to the car, what about damage to an historic relic? I reckon Buckinghamshire CC would serve everybody better by claiming damages off the driver's insurance.

This reminds me of a problem I always faced when taking my dog, Tina, (not the present one, her immediate predecessor) on a bus. Tina absolutely loved travelling on trains with buses a close second, although she hated car journeys, had to be hefted into a car and lay there and sulked until the journey was over. The problem with buses was other passengers. Tina would happily lie at my feet but wanted to see what was going on and would edge her head out into the aisle. Obviously she had constantly to be pulled back or for certain somebody would have stamped on her head. And unlike even a small child, there was no way to explain to her why she shouldn't do it - as far as she was concerned she was harming nobody.

But it always struck me what if it hadn't been a dog? What if it had been a small child or even a hole in the floor? I suppose if a hole had appeared and this person tripped, it really would have been the fault of the bus company, in law, at least.

I belong to a generation where you were supposed to be responsible for your own actions and one modern trait I find truly irritating are cold-callers, or worse being stopped in the street by folk who want to know if you have had an accident "which wasn't your fault". If I had, and if it really wasn't my fault, I would have either forgotten the incident or done something about it at the time. But the word 'accident' surely means something that nobody could reasonably foresee. So in most cases that also means that it was really nobody's fault and you were simply the unfortunate victim.

As a child, and indeed long after I had grown up, my mother would continually annoy me by saying, after some personal catastrophe: "It's your own fault". This annoyed me because she was usually quite right. I knew it but it wasn't what I wanted to hear.

It strikes me that if all children were brought up as I (and all my contemporaries as far as I recall) was, then all our insurance premiums would be far lower and the courts wouldn't be wasting nearly as much time.

But back to the Soulbury rock. It has stood where it is for millennia, it has been where it is in the road for generations. And now, just because somebody can't take the trouble to drive round it, it is threatened with removal.

Strange how these laws work though, isn't it? Had the rock been a 3ft tall kiddie, I rather think it would have been the driver in the dock, not the rock.

Autumn opening date for Moor Hall conversion

A FORMER manor house in Aughton, which is being transformed into a contemporary restaurant and small hotel, is set to open in early autumn.

The Grade II listed Moor Hall is set in five-acre grounds with a lake and tennis courts and boasts five reception rooms, eight bedrooms and a Victorian walled garden.

Moor Hall Construction Limited were granted planning permission last year for a change of use for the hall, outbuildings and gated lodge into a restaurant with extra rooms, as well as provisions for car parking and landscaping.

The property was a country house with the main part dated 1566, but likely to have been built earlier, and with additions made in the 18th and 19th centuries.

The building and grounds are being developed in two stages; initially with the restaurant and bedrooms, and then, in mid-2017, a large former barn will be restored into a second, more informal dining space that will also feature a small dairy, charcuterie and curing room and a meat ageing room.

Rocking back to the Sixties

THE 10th Rockin' at The YPC reunion for the teenagers of the 60s Ormskirk Young People's Club fundraiser for Cancer Research UK will be held on Saturday, April 16 at The 22 Club, Moorgate, Ormskirk.

Featured musicians include Shooter, The Rebels and special guests, The Rockin' Relics.

Tickets cost £10 and can be bought from Hesfords DIY on Moorgate or reserved by calling 01695 572564 or 01704 213068.

Mayor to open church's royal celebration event

TARLETON Methodist Church will host an event to celebrate the Queen's 90th birthday on Saturday, April 16 featuring interesting and informative displays depicting all aspects of village life during her reign.

The event will be opened by the Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Nikki Hennessy at 9.50am.

Chance for youngsters to learn about nature at Springwatch events

WEST Lancs Council's parks and countryside service are encouraging youngsters in the borough to become Junior Rangers and enjoy exploring nature at a series of Springwatch events at local parks in the coming weeks.

Aimed at children aged between five and 12 the Junior Rangers events will enable them to learn more about local wildlife and discover more about the new season's trends and changes.

These will be held as follows:

- Monday, April 18 at Coronation Park, Ormskirk.
- Tuesday, April 19 at Beacon Country Park, Up Holland.
- Wednesday, April 20 at Stanley Coronation Park, Skelmersdale.
- Thursday, April 21 at Richmond Park, Burscough.

All events start at 2pm and children will require adult supervision from someone aged 18 or over throughout.

Places are limited and booking is essential. You can book by email at beacon.park@westlancs.gov.uk or call 01695 622794.

Care trust and county council team up to launch Quit Squad

A NEW service to help people in Lancashire who vape, smoke or chew nicotine or tobacco products, to quit has been launched with a Freephone contact number for appointments covering all areas.

The Quit Squad service is being provided by Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust and appointments can be made with trained advisors either one-to-one or by accessing groups during the daytime or evenings at community venues close to people's homes.

The service will deliver training and support to other organisations and work with the Smokefree Homes and Cars partnerships to support those who want to give up smoking and make their home environment smoke-free. Where possible, people will be able to access stop smoking sessions using Skype and other digital technology.

The Quit Squad has been commissioned by Lancashire County Council and Dr Sakthi Karunanithi, the authority's director of public health, said: "Around 20% of Lancashire's population smokes. As well as shortening life expectancy, smoking causes conditions such as cancer, lung and heart disease, which can lead to many years of poor health.

"A third of smokers want to quit and they're much more likely to succeed with the support of services such as Quit Squad.

"Trained advisors will provide stop smoking medicine and specialist help and support. Quit Squad will also provide support using the latest technology, such as Skype and smartphone apps, to make it even easier for people to get the help they need to give up.

"The service will also be available closer to the community and workplaces making it more convenient for them to get face-to-face support."

Quit Squads will also have an important role in helping the county council to work with employers, schools and communities to 'denormalise' smoking and stop others from forming the habit.

Julie Trezise, Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust's stop smoking service manager, said: "Whether you smoke, vape (including e-cigs) or chew, the Quit Squad will be able to support you to successfully quit. Smoking is one of the biggest causes of death and illness in the UK.

"You're four times more likely to stop with expert help and advice than trying to quit alone and that's all the more reason to work with us. It's because of this that we're offering support and information to help people stop, and we will be holding lots of events throughout the area."

For more information call Freephone 0800 3286297 or visit www.quitsquad.nhs.uk. You can also follow the Quit Squad on Twitter via @lancashirecare #quitsquad.

Funding available for arts initiatives

Report by Danielle Thompson

LANCASHIRE County Council has announced new funding available for arts organisations in the county.

The county's Cultural Partnerships Programme 2016-18 is now open to professional, not-for-profit initiatives delivering quality arts activity.

Funding of up to £25,000 is available for projects or initiatives in areas where the number of people currently enjoying arts and culture are low, and where residents across the county would benefit.

The finance comes from two different funds that are available from the county council, Cultural Partnerships or the Children and Young People's Cultural Offer.

The Cultural Partnerships fund supports and encourages people of all ages to take part in and enjoy the arts.

The Children and Young People's Cultural Offer aims to make access to the arts easier for anyone up to 19. This is available in partnership with the creative Curious Minds organisation, based in Preston.

Lancashire County Council's head of libraries, museums and culture, Julie Bell, said: "I'm delighted that we are able to offer this funding. Lancashire has a vibrant arts and culture sector and this will enable even more people to get involved in the future."

Applications to either fund should be made before the deadline of noon on Thursday, April 28.

For more information about the funding or to obtain an application form call the Lancashire Arts Development Team on 01772 533040 or email ACS.artsdevelopmentservice@lancashire.gov.uk

Further information is also available at www.lancashire.gov.uk/libraries.

Boundary Commission publishes final proposals for county's electoral divisions

THE independent Local Government Boundary Commission for England has published its final recommendations for new electoral arrangements for Lancashire County Council.

The publication follows a phase of public consultation last year on its draft proposals, and draws new boundaries for each county electoral division across Lancashire.

The commission's final recommendations propose that Lancashire should be represented by 84 county councillors in the future, the same as the current arrangement.

The recommendations also propose that those councillors should represent 80 single-member electoral divisions and two two-member electoral divisions across the county.

Professor Colin Mellors, chair of the commission, said: "We are extremely grateful to people across Lancashire who took the time and effort to send us their views. The commission considered every piece of evidence it received before finalising these recommendations.

"Across the county, we have sought to balance the views expressed to us by local people with the criteria we must apply when we are deciding on new electoral arrangements. As such, we believe these recommendations deliver electoral equality for voters as well as reflecting the identities of communities in Lancashire."

Full details of the final recommendations are available on the commission's website at www.lgbce.org.uk

The proposed new arrangements must now be implemented by Parliament. A draft order will be laid in the coming months, providing for the new electoral arrangements to come into force at the county council elections in 2017.

GIRL POWER AT SPRING ANTIQUES SALE

A rare porcelain figurine from the 1920's turned heads at Thomas Watsons' Spring Antiques Catalogue Sale, held in conjunction with Southport Auctions, at the end of last month when it sold for £3,400.00, almost doubling its price estimate of £1,800.00 - £2,500.00.

The 'Shelley Girl' was an advertising piece for the renowned Staffordshire-based Shelley Pottery and depicts a stylish seated woman holding a cup and saucer, wearing a black brimmed hat and brightly patterned paisley dress with a fur over her shoulder.

Standing 30cm high, the piece was printed Shelley to either side of the pedestal and twice to the base, with a factory mark to the underside. With a history dating back to 1860, the Shelley brand was in business until 1966 but its hey day coincided with the art deco styles produced in the 1920s and 1930s.

"This beautiful piece of art pottery really did have star quality," said David Elstob, Auctioneer and valuer. "The Shelley Girls are also pretty scarce now, so we were not surprised that the figurine attracted so much attention at the auction."

Another female porcelain figure that did exceptionally well at the Sale was a piece by Konrad Hentschel from around 1905. It went under the hammer for £1,050.00, greatly exceeding its £200 to £300 price estimate.

Standing at 12.5cm high, it featured a young girl in a simple white dress attending her doll in a pram and was part of a series designed by Hentschel for Meissen – one of the most famous porcelain manufacturers in Europe. Indeed. the company's signature logo of the crossed swords was clearly visible on the piece.

"What makes this figurine particularly interesting is the fact that it was in the Art Nouveau style," said David Elstob. "The series was seen as a refreshing change from the earlier 'old' figures produced by Meissen and, as such, became an instant success."

The Thomas Watson Spring Catalogue Catalogue Sale - which was held on 22 March in its Darlington saleroom - was one of the most successful in the auction house's recent history with many lots soaring way above their guide prices.

A large collection of gold coins and sovereigns sold exceptionally well, reaching a combined sum of around £45,000.00. Included in the collection of around 200 coins was an Elizabeth II gold proof set of coins for the 2002 Golden Jubilee. Comprising 13 coins that ranged from five-pounds to a Maundy fourpence, the set was finally knocked down for £3,800.00. Not far behind was a single George V five-pound coin minted in 1937 that sold for £3,400.00 – way above its price estimate of £1,200.00 to £1,800.00.

Watches, jewellery, clocks, silverware, furniture and fine art also achieved impressive prices across the board, with the sale's highest selling lot being a lady's Rolex 18 carat gold watch reaching £5,000.00.

The Shelley Girl reached £3,400.00 at Thomas Watsons Spring Catalogue Sale.

Tracey Beaker books illustrator to open gallery exhibition dedicated to his work

Report by Henry James

NICK Sharratt, the creator of the famous illustrations for Jacqueline Wilson's Tracy Beaker books, is coming to Ormskirk to open a colourful, hands-on exhibition dedicated to his work.

Pirates, Pants and Wellyphants – The Illustrated World of Nick Sharratt, opens at West Lancs Council's Chapel Gallery in St Helens Road this weekend and runs until Saturday, June 25.

And Nick himself will be in attendance to celebrate the launch of the exhibition and to sign copies of his books between 10am and 4pm on Saturday, April 16.

Entrance is free but the event is expected to be busy so be prepared to queue.

The exhibition is a creative playground where visitors of all ages are encouraged to get hands-on and take part in the interactive activities.

It features many of the well-known characters that Nick has illustrated over the years - including Tracy Beaker, Daisy, Hetty Feather and Pirate Pete - as well as a host of animals and vast quantities of food and clothing.

Visitors can immerse themselves in Nick's world, find out about his childhood and what inspired him to become an illustrator and meet a host of the characters he has created throughout his career.

The exhibition includes a wipe-clean wall for everyone to have a go at drawing their own Nick Sharratt-inspired picture. And young visitors - and the young-at-heart! - can enjoy dressing up in a selection of whacky costumes.

There will also be a series of free workshops accompanying the exhibition. These include story-telling sessions for youngsters aged from three to 11 years, plus colourful character workshops.

The story-telling sessions offer a chance to see and hear some of the stories that Nick Sharratt has brought to life. There's no need to book, but places are limited so arrive early to avoid disappointment. All children must be accompanied by an adult.

Some of the colourful characters created by Nick Sharratt © Nick Sharratt

The colourful characters workshops are an opportunity to create a character with their own extraordinary story and are suitable for children aged eight and over.

Numbers for these are limited so booking is required. To book and for details of the times and dates for both activities contact the gallery on 01695 571328 or email chapel.gallery@west-lancs.gov.uk to book.

Nick Sharratt has written at least 40 children's books and illustrated close to 250 more. His partnership with Jacqueline Wilson began with The Story of Tracy Beaker in 1991. Their books have sold more than 35 million copies in Britain.

Dave Tilleray, West lancs Council's director of leisure and wellbeing, said: "We are delighted that Nick Sharratt's exhibition is coming to the Chapel Gallery. There will be some fantastic interactive artworks on display, so please come along and enjoy this marvellous event."

Pregnant cat saved from drowning by intrepid passer-by

Report by Ollie Cowan

THE RSPCA are investigating an incident in which a man was only prevented from drowning a pregnant cat thanks to the intervention of a woman passing by.

The incident occurred on the night of Thursday, April 7 when the passer-by spotted a man trying to drown the cat in a horse trough in Banks.

She confronted the man and asked him what he was doing to which he brazenly replied that he was getting rid of the cat because it was pregnant.

A heated discussion then ensued before the man eventually and reluctantly handed the cat over to the woman.

She then took it to Woodlands Animal Sanctuary in Holmeswood where it is being treated for shock.

The cat, which has been named Ariel by staff at the sanctuary, is expected to make a full recovery following its ordeal.

A spokesperson for Woodlands told the Champion: "Ariel arrived here on Thursday after being saved from drowning by a brave, concerned member of the public.

"The cat was found, being held under the water in a drinking bath for horses on land in Banks.

"The man who was attempting to drown Ariel admitted that he was drowning her because she was pregnant!

"Fortunately the member of the public who intervened managed to persuade him to hand the cat over, even though he didn't do this willingly.

"Ariel was very cold and distressed after her ordeal but is now safe and warm with us here in the sanctuary. She has been checked over by the vet who confirmed that she is pregnant and has also had some very large mats removed from her coat.

"Hopefully she is now feeling a bit more comfortable. She seems a bit happier now and is a lovely, sweet little thing. She is probably less than a year old herself and we can't begin to imagine how terrifying this experience has been for her.

"The RSPCA have been made aware of this incident but unfortunately there is not enough evidence.

"Ariel will stay with us and have her kittens in safety, all being well. Then, once her kittens are old enough to leave for their new homes, we will also be able to find her a loving, permanent home, where she can live her life happily, be treated with kindness and enjoy being a young cat."

Ariel the cat is now safe at the Woodlands Animal Sanctuary after being rescued from a watery fate

Residents and staff from Abbey Wood Lodge enjoy their Ladies Day-themed champagne breakfast

Sparkling day out!

A GROUP of residents from a care home in Ormskirk couldn't make it to Ladies Day at Aintree's Grand National meeting so they organised their own themed event a little closer to home.

Staff and residents from Abbey Wood Lodge in County Road enjoyed a sparkling day out with a races-themed champagne breakfast at the Cricketers pub in Chapel Street.

The care home's events organiser, Lesley Malone, said: "It was an amazing morning. The ladies all wore hats and hair fascinators matching their lovely outfits and certainly looked the part as much as the 'celebrities' at Aintree, while the gentlemen looked rather dapper in their suits, ties and hats.

"Other members of the public joined in with the photographs and chatted to our group and it was lovely to see the smiles on the faces of the residents.

"We invite anyone feeling lonely to join in with our in-house events and day trips. Come along and join in and make new friends and have that lovely feeling knowing that people really care."

Heart charity's marathon fundraiser with a difference

Report by Henry James

IF you've ever fancied tackling a sponsored marathon in aid of a good cause but don't think you could cope with the training that goes with it, a new fundraising campaign launched by the British Heart Foundation could be the answer for you.

The charity is calling on West Lancs residents to sign up for its MyMarathon challenge during May to raise vital funding for its research, education, care and awareness campaigns aimed at preventing heart disease.

To take part, you must simply complete the 26.2 marathon distance during the month in your own time - whether that's four hours, four days or four weeks!

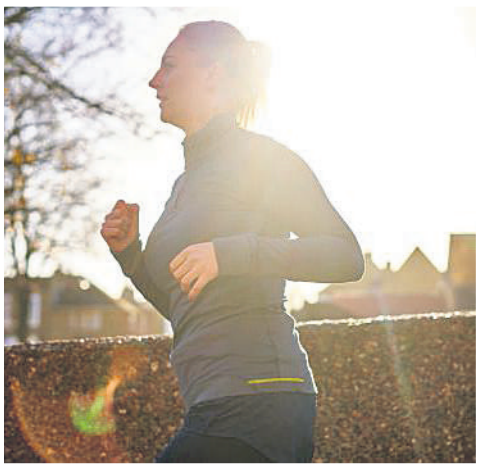
According to statistics released as part of the new BHF challenge, almost half of residents in the North West (47%) confessed to being so unfit they would get out of breath running for the bus.

The poll also revealed almost half (46%) of people in the region said if they went running now the furthest they could manage is just half-a-mile or less, while one in six (15%) felt they could only make it to 100 metres!

Of those who could manage to run a mile, one in four (25%) said the last time they did was more than 10 years ago.

Two fifths of people in the North West say they don't feel fit enough to join the gym or start exercising and a quarter believe running is only for people who are really fit and healthy.

Christopher Allen, senior cardiac nurse at the BHF, said: "These statistics paint a worrying picture about the nation's fitness levels. Heart disease can affect anyone at any age, but keeping physically active is one of the best ways to help build a strong and healthy heart so we shouldn't ignore the benefits."



With the BHF MyMarathon fundraising challenge you can complete the 26.2 miles in your own time

Heart and circulatory disease affects around seven million people in the UK and is responsible for around 155,000 deaths each year – an average of one person every three minutes. In the North West more than 901,000 people are living with heart and circulatory disease.

Meanwhile, every pound raised from MyMarathon will help the BHF fulfil its ambition to fund half a billion pounds of new research in the next five years, to revolutionise and accelerate the fight against heart disease.

For more details or to sign up to MyMarathon free online go to www.bhf.org.uk/mymarathon.

County digital skills project recognised

A COUNTY council initiative which aims to help people access online services and boost the basic digital skills of people throughout Lancashire has been named in the Digital Leaders 100 List 2016 in the Cross-Sector Digital Collaboration of the Year category.

The Digital Leaders List honours achievements from the past year, celebrating organisations and individuals that are leading the digital transformation of the UK.

Digital Leaders includes various organisations from the public, private and voluntary sectors, who share expertise and look at new ways to develop digital services.

Lancashire County Council signed up to the Go ON UK Digital Skills Charter in 2014. This included a commitment to develop the skills of its own staff, as well as those of people across the county.

County council chief executive, Jo Turton, said: "This nomination recognises our work to establish Go ON Lancashire, which supports our colleagues and the public to gain digital skills and ensure that digital services can be used by everyone.

"Through Digital Leaders we'll be able to gain information that could benefit people here in Lancashire, while working hard to raise awareness of our work and bring new partners in that could benefit the project.

"Our council services are increasingly available online, making it even easier for people to access them. As part of this transformation, we want people to have the skills they need to get the right advice and support.

"There are still thousands of adults in Lancashire who have never been online. We are committed to helping these people develop their basic digital skills and opening up new opportunities for them."

The overall winner for 2016 will be chosen by public vote. You can vote at digileaders100.com until Friday, May 27.

Age UK charity shop appeal for 'unwanted' clutter

IF you're planning an old-fashioned spring clean in preparation for, hopefully, better weather ahead, stop and think before you discard your unwanted clutter.

That's the message from officials of a local charity shop.

Volunteers at the Age UK shop in Moor Street, Ormskirk are appealing for donations of unwanted items which could be sold to raise funds for the charity's work supporting older people.

A spokesperson said: "We urgently need goods such as clothing and accessories, gifts, books, toys, household items and shoes, all of which are then sold on to be loved again.

"Money raised goes towards supporting the charity's work for older people delivering hands-on local services through the Age UK network, as well as hugely important work like Age UK's free advice line (open 365 days a year) and vital campaigning work."

For more information about Age UK, go to the website www.ageuk.org.uk.

Shadow minister slams flood pumps closure decision

Shadow communities and local government minister Jon Tickett pictured with Councilllor John Hodson during his visit to flood-affected areas in Rufford

SHADOW secretary of state for communities and local government, Jon Trickett, has added his voice to the campaign against the proposed closure next year of the five Alt Crossens flood pumps during a visit to the area.

Report by Danielle Thompson

Local campaigners believe that the decision to turn off the pumps in 2017, announced last year by the Environment Agency, will increase the risk of major floods in West Lancashire - just months after the area suffered its worst flooding in years.

And they have put the blame for the decision squarely on cuts to local government budgets imposed by central government.

On Friday (April 8) Labour MP Mr Trickett visited an area where the river bust its banks in December causing major flooding on Meadow Lane in Rufford.

He told the Champion: "The upkeep of the pumps to reduce the flood risk in West Lancs is clearly the government's responsibility.

"The government's cuts to the North West total £1.9 billion and in West Lancs, per each man, woman and child, this equates to around £346 of cuts. And to add insult to injury, they are then cutting flood protection!

"The average cut per person in the south is around £68. Obviously, the north is not seen as 'important' as the south by the current government and it's appalling.

Asked about the proposed plans to create an Internal Drainage Board in the area, to manage water levels and reduce flood risk to people and property, he said: "The pumps at Alt Crossens should not be turned off and a better decision is needed to make sure they are not turned off.

"That said, if the government provided funds for flood risk management, then the council well might decide that it was a good idea.

"But the council simply cannot create solutions without money. The money needs to be made available, the government needs, on principle, to provide a budget for flood risk management."

Sports car enthusiasts out in force for first meet

THERE was a 20-strong turn-out for the first meeting of the year of the West Lancs MG Owners Club at the Red Cat in Crank last week.

Ten classic cars lined up at the event, three MGFs, two Midgets and an MGTF, an MGB, an MGBv8, an MGB-GT and a MGA.

Organiser, Steve Kirton, said: "Anyone who likes socialising and car runs while having fun with like-minded people and has a classic car would be most welcome to join the club. We meet every third Thursday at 8pm at Briars Hall, Lathom."

For more information check out the club's Facebook page West Lancs MG Owners or website, www.westlancsmg.co.uk.

Driver who left scene of accident was over drink-drive limit

By our Court Reporter

AN Ormskirk woman prosecuted for leaving the scene of an accident was drink-driving, a court has heard.

A collision involving a Peugeot belonging to Claire Hesketh, 26, of Moss Bridge Lane, caused extensive damage to a Ford Kuga belonging to a Lydiate resident, Sefton Magistrates Court were told on April 6.

Prosecutor Hannah Griffiths said that police were deployed to reports that the driver of a car involved in an accident on Liverpool Road just after midnight on October 6 had been seen walking towards Maghull town centre and officers enquired at a Shell garage where they were told she had asked for assistance in calling for a taxi.

"She appeared to be drunk and appeared pale," the garage attendant told police, Ms Griffiths said.

After attending the taxi company, officers caught up with Hesketh at a friend's house in Whalley Drive, Aughton, where she confirmed that she was the driver involved in the accident. She admitted that she'd drank a couple of glasses of wine and then some vodka before driving and then more vodka after arriving at her friend's house.

An expert was brought in to evaluate what her alcohol levels would have been when she was driving, police having accepted her claim to have been drinking afterwards.

The amount was calculated to be 50 micrograms of alcohol in 100ml of breath, the legal limit being 35mcg.

Solicitor Rachel Barrow, said that Hesketh is an apprenticeship advisor with no previous convictions. She had not intended to drive, having had a drink, but a friend had called when she was in bed to say bailiffs were coming in the morning and that he desperately wanted to borrow some money.

Saying that the accident occurred when she dropped her phone and bent down to pick it up, Ms Barrow said: "It was a significant accident and she fully accepts her responsibility. She was very lucky not to be severely injured. She asks that you accept her explanation that the accident was caused through foolishness rather than the level of alcohol in her system."

The solicitor added that a man who assisted at the scene told her he would contact police on her behalf as she was in such a panic. "Her father had spent a significant amount of money for the car and she didn't know what he was going to say," she said.

Magistrates fined Ms Hesketh £240 and ordered her to pay £420 in costs and victim surcharge, including the cost of the expert report, and banned her from driving for 15 months.

Guides celebrate World Thinking Day

MORE than 200 Rainbows, Brownies, Guides and senior section members from Ormskirk marked World Thinking Day with a ceremony in Aughton.

World Thinking Day is an opportunity for Guides and Girl Scouts in 145 countries around the world to think about the diversity of the membership and show appreciation for each other's lives.

Event organiser, Jennifer Shacklady, said: "A candlelit service was held and the girls made their own lanterns which made it a very special event."

Jackson show a real thriller!

Thriller Live
Empire Theatre, Liverpool
Star Rating: 8/10

Review by Henry James

THERE was certainly nothing bad about the recent Thriller Live show at the Empire Theatre!

The hits of one of the greatest singers of all time, Michael Jackson, are celebrated in this top production, which has just entered the 20 all time longest-running musicals in West End history!

It is now touring and can be seen at The Liverpool Empire until this Saturday.

The show goes right back to the start of his career with the Jackson 5. ABC and Rockin' Robin are among the highlights in the earlier part of the evening and Shake Your Body (Down to the Ground) had the audience on their feet.

The production then concentrates on Jackson's solo career and his 1979 album, Off The Wall.

Rory Taylor, who is from the Wirral, received a very warm reception for his rendition of She's Out of My Life.

Don't Stop 'Til You Get Enough is also included in the look back of this period.

Throughout the evening, the singing of Jackson's hits is shared between Angelica Allen, Adam Bernard and Shaquille Hemmans, as well as Rory Taylor.

Some of the loudest cheers were saved for the lead dancer – Sean Christopher, who moves as well as Jackson in his heyday and sounds like him as well.

The night ends with They Don't Care About Us and Earth Song – two songs written with political messages.

There is then a strong encore and Thriller, Billie Jean and Bad are performed.

You'll certainly be a slave to the rhythm of this show!

Paycock was a great historic journey!

JUNO and the Paycock
Formby Little Theatre
Star Rating: 7/10

Tony Burke (Capt.Jack Boyle) and Stewart Brignull (Joxer)

SET in the tenements of Dublin during the Irish Civil war in the 1920's, Sean O'Casey's classic play of poverty and authoritarian religion, written in 1924, has been performed constantly ever since.

Tony Burke was outstanding as The Paycock, Captain Jack Boyle, head of the household, whose life is devoted to drink.

Jack goes about with another neer-do-well boozer, Joxer (a sterling performance by Stuart Brignull), whose lively chatter lightens the overriding gloom.

Pamela Foy made a perfect Juno, Jack's wife who keeps the family together.

The family have no money, a few old wooden pieces of furniture, no curtains on the windows and little food for the table. The only one working is Juno. Daughter, Mary (Megan Handley) is on strike.

Suddenly good fortune strikes. Solicitor Mr. Bentham (David Walker) arrives with news that Jack has been left a fortune by his first cousin but it never arrives.

Bentham flees the scene after putting Mary in the family way.

Meanwhile, son Johnny (Matthew Swinnerton), suffering post-traumatic stress after losing his arm, is taken away and shot by the IRA.

Juno has had enough and takes Mary away, leaving Jack in the shabby flat to face life on his own.

There are nice cameo roles for Roger Sloman as Needle Nugent, and for Ivy Corder as grieving mother, Mrs Tancred.

DEATHS

MY LITTLE BROTHER
KEV

Most things in life I can take and bear, because when it came down to it I knew you'd be there.

This was not how the plan was meant to be, it should be the oldest and that would be me.

You know I'd change places in the blink of an eye, if it would just stop me having to say goodbye.

But we all make our choices in life as you know, and you made yours and it was time to go.

I am angry and disappointed because I don't think it's fair, but the one good thing about it was you knew I was there.

This was a fight that neither of us could win, but that's another story and I wouldn't know where to begin.

But the one thing I do know is that Mum was waiting up there, and with the smile on your face as you were leaving, I knew you had got there.

So do me a favour Little Brother from time to time, take a look down upon me and just send me a sign.

I miss and love you already, you 'Stupid Muppet.'

Take care, you'll be fine, trust me.

Love Big Norm

DEEGAN

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING ACT 1990

The Secretary of State gives notice of the proposal to make an Order under section 247 of the above Act to authorise the stopping up of a length of unnamed footpath adjacent to Gratton Place at Skelmersdale in the Borough of West Lancashire.

If made, the Order would authorise the stopping up only to enable development as permitted by West Lancashire Borough Council, under reference 2015/0553/COU.

Copies of the draft Order and relevant plan will be available for inspection during normal opening hours at Skelmersdale Library, Southway, Skelmersdale, WN8 6EL in the 28 days commencing on 13 April 2016, and may be obtained, free of charge, from the address stated below (quoting NATTRAN/NW/S247/2245).

Any person may object to the making of the proposed order by stating their reasons in writing to the Secretary of State at nationalcasework@dft.gsi.gov.uk or National Transport Casework Team, Tyneside House, Skinnerburn Road, Newcastle upon Tyne NE4 7AR, quoting the above reference. Objections should be received by midnight on 11 May 2016. Any person submitting any correspondence is advised that your personal data and correspondence will be passed to the applicant/agent to be considered. If you do not wish your personal data to be forwarded, please state your reasons when submitting your correspondence.

Golf GT Hot Hatch

A HOT hatch launched to mark 40 years of Volkswagen's Golf GTI is available to order now.

Prices for the GTI Clubsport model, which has 290bhp and the ability to sprint to 60mph in 6.3 seconds, start at £30,875, and it's available to order with three or five doors and with a choice of gearboxes.

It might not be the new Defender but this latest Land Rover has an important job to do

Latest Land Rover is all too familiar!

Life On Cars
DAVID SIMISTER
www.lifeoncars.blogspot.com

LAND ROVER'S latest offering isn't quite what I was expecting. After years of teasing us all with a Defender it's simply decided to dust off its archive drawings and bring one of its old models back.

I jest, but only slightly. The latest offering from the people who make the best 4x4xfar isn't the Defender's actual replacement – you'll have to wait a little bit longer for that – but they really are offering as-new Series Is.

It's the first time you've been able to do that since 1958 – and while they're perfectionist restorations rather than brand new cars, it leaves me with very mixed feelings.

The Series I might be the Land Rover that started it all but it's got a very different place in my head to the sacred cow far too many people have made it nowadays. Not that long ago I'd spend Saturdays in disused quarries and muddy fields watching these things being thrown up tricky inclines and bumper first into baths of cold, mucky water. It's a bit like that wonderful moment when you unleash the Golden Retriever and watch it immediately dive into the nearest pond. Getting grubby and having fun is what old Land Rovers are all about.

But nowadays it's rare to see a Series I rolling around in the dirt because they're so valuable, and I suspect it'll be the same with these 'new' ones. There'll only be 25 of them – making them rarer than a Ferrari F40 or a Bugatti Veyron - and the price tag of anything between £60,000 and £80,000 means they'll cost about the same as a BMW M5 or a 911. They're just too precious for anything approaching proper off-roading.

Yet there is a weird bit of reverse logic to bringing the Series I back, because the parts are greater than the sum. Chances are you're never going to spend the price of a small house on a 1950s Land Rover but it proves you can get just about any part imaginable for the scruffy old one your mate's got buried in his garage.

Not being able to get bits anymore affects more cars than you might think. I know of people who struggle to keep cars from distant periods of history like the 1990s going simply because Volkswagen no longer makes obsolete bits of metal for the Corrado's sunroof. There are loads of perfectly good Rovers, Fords, Peugeots and the like which risk getting thrown away simply because the parts don't exist anymore. Cars like the MGB and Mini have a big enough cult following to justify the parts being remade, but most don't. Which means a lot of our motoring heritage risks being killed off because the spares no longer exist.

Land Rover – even if its by showing us a hugely expensive 'new' car – is taking a step in the right direction. All we need now is for everyone else to follow suit.

Busy match schedule ahead

SKELMERSDALE United have a busy schedule to end their season with five games to play by the end of this month.

The Evo-Stik Premier Division season is due to end on Saturday, April 23 when Skelmersdale United make the long trip over to Whitby Town.

Mickleover Sports make a first ever visit to Stormy Corner this Saturday for a 3pm kick off and Stamford will make the long journey up from South Lincolnshire on Tuesday, April 19 for a 7.45pm kick off.

However, the weather has had its say all season in the fixture schedule and still demands its inclusion to the very end.

Skelmersdale travelled to play Darlington 1883 last night (Tuesday) with the match played at Spennymoor's ground due to a waterlogged pitch at Darlington.

League rules demand that it is played before the April 23 deadline and this creates a huge dilemma for the Skelmersdale players.

Skelmersdale also have a Liverpool County FA Senior Cup semi-final to squeeze into their schedule before the end of April.

Saturday's game against Mickleover will see a special guest in the form of charity The Alfie Lund Fund.

Many fans will already know about Alfie, who suffers from MECP2 Duplication syndrome.

One of the methods it has been using to raise money is building a huge collection of football shirts, scarves and flags which are fastened together to encircle a football pitch, the intention being to break the record for its length and reportedly they have around two miles of items.

The collection is coming to Stormy Corner on Saturday along with Alfie himself. It has already been on display at 64 grounds.

Alfie's father Mark invites people to fetch a shirt, scarf or flag to add to the collection that will eventually be auctioned to raise money for Mecp2 Duplication UK.

Late penalty save seals win over table toppers

Blyth Spartans 1
Skelmersdale United 2

Skelmersdale added to their giant-slaying reputation this season by beating another table topping team.

It seems that Tommy Lawson's men relish the underdog role having now beaten Spartans twice, as well as Workington and Salford City.

The game started out as a potential thriller and maintained its end-to-end action throughout.

The more the half progressed the more Skem imposed themselves on Blyth.

Only a great tackle by Dillon Morse thwarted Hazeldine on 20 minutes, home keeper Adam McHugh saved from Almond then tipped a tremendous dipping drive from Mike Brewster over the crossbar.

Blyth were now the team playing on the counterattack and Fearon was again sharp to keep out Reid on 32 minutes.

On 36 minutes Skelmersdale got the goal that nobody could dispute they deserved. A long ball dropped about 25 yards from goal and Hazeldine again ran at defensive pairing Morse and Nathan Buddle, who hesitated, Hazeldine took possession, rounded keeper McHugh and netted via a simple tap-in. I

Skelmersdale must have expected a second-half onslaught from the hosts, but it never really came. Instead for the next twenty minutes or so Skelmersdale looked the most likely scorers.

On 54 minutes Skelmersdale got the crucial second goal. Scott Bakkor had been tormenting Blyth left-back Jordan Watson all afternoon and again he stormed down the right, this time he cut inside and fired the ball into the goalmouth, Almond met the ball about four yards out and flicked it past aghast goalkeeper McHugh and into the net.

Blyth made changes, the significant one was the introduction of substitute Wilson Kneeshaw up front and after 68 minutes he pulled a goal back, heading home from six yards from an Arran Wearmouth cross.

Blyth were awarded a penalty on 79 minutes after Shaun Holden tussled with attacker Wearmouth in the box.

However, keeper Fearon saved the day by diving to his left to save Damon Mullen's spot-kick.

Linnets boost play-off hopes in five goal thriller

Burscough 3
Mossley 2

BURSCOUGH extended their unbeaten run to five games after a five-goal thriller saw them boost their chances of finishing in a play-off position.

The Linnets, who sit in fifth place in the table, now have a four point cushion over their nearest rivals as they head into the final four games of the season.

The home side started brightly and penned back a Mossley side who were unable to string a run of passes together.

Having weathered the Burscough 20 minute storm, the game started to swing Mossley's way and Tom Pratt almost broke the deadlock and Dougie Carroll was denied at point blank range by Linnets keeper Calvin Hare.

The away side took the lead on 26 minutes. Andy Keogh and Godwin Abadaki worked a move on the right and the latter's clever through ball saw Tom Pratt smash the ball home from eight yards.

Pratt almost doubled the lead minutes later but the game turned around in the home side's favour two minutes before the break.

Burscough broke down Mossley's right and striker Will Jones had an effort blocked and Michael Monoghhan's rebound effort was also denied on the line by Tom Dean.

However, the referee had pointed to the penalty spot for a foul by Danny McDonnell on Monoghan. Home skipper Paul Williams scored from the spot to level matters.

Burscough took the lead on the stroke of half time after Michael Thomas was caught in possession with no cover behind and Burscough broke at pace with winger Karl Noon putting the homesters ahead.

Two minutes into the second half and the Linnets had their third goal when Andy Keogh looped a header into his own net after a wind assisted deep cross by Smart.

Amazingly, Keogh made amends within a minute with a glancing header into the right for Mossley to set up an anxious finale for Burscough.

But the Linnets managed to hold out for all three points to cement their position in the top five.

Burscough were set to face Radcliffe Borough away last night (Tuesday) before a huge game against play-off chasing rivals Clitheroe this Saturday at home.

Hockey club seek players as promotion is sealed

MEMBERS of Ormskirk Hockey club were thrilled to go up a division after winning their league.

The Men's First Team, made up of 20 members aged 18-30, who train at Edge Hill University in Ormskirk, have moved up from Division 4 North to Division 3 in the Barrington Sports North West Hockey League. Now, the club is looking to create a Second Team and are looking for interested hockey players of any ability, including university students, to try out for the new team.

If you are interested in trying out for the second team, call Harry Northrop on 07771568171.
